Anti-Sexual Harassment Committee & Internal Complaints Committee (ICC):

Introduction: The Sexual Harassment of Women at Workplace (Prevention, Prohibition and Redressal) Act, 2013 ("POSH Act") was enacted as a comprehensive legislation to provide a safe, secure and enabling environment, free from sexual harassment to every woman. This statute was enacted to fill the legislative void which had been partially addressed by the judiciary in Vishaka and Others v. State of Rajasthan and Others (1997 (7) SCC 323). In this seminal public interest litigation verdict, the Supreme Court of India had framed a set of guidelines ("Vishaka Guidelines") for dealing with instances of sexual harassment at the workplace, which has now been codified in the PoSH Act.

Under the POSH Act, an employer is legally required to comply with certain statutory requirements. One of these is the constitution of an Internal Complaints Committee ("ICC"), a body envisaged to receive complaints on sexual harassment at the workplace from an aggrieved woman, as well as to inquire into and make recommendations to the employer on the action required pursuant to its inquiry of such complaint made. To give support to any female employee or even girl student, committee has been formed in the college. The Anti-sexual harassment committee is responsible for any cases that has been registered. The committee also arranges seminars and other awareness programmes under the banner of women's cell to create awareness among the students. The principal looks after all the activities and keep the record for future reference. It is really a proud moment for us that till date, no sexual harassment cases have been registered by any female employee of the college.

Investigation procedures

Internal Complaint Committee (ICC) follows specific investigation procedures when addressing complaints of sexual harassment, gender based/caste-based discrimination, or any form of misconduct to any student or employee in the workplace. Here's a general outline of the steps involved in the college:

1. The ICC receives the complaint either in writing or through an established reporting channel. After receiving the same, it usually maintains confidentiality and sensitivity throughout the process.
2. The committee conducts an initial assessment of the complaint to determine its validity and seriousness. This may involve interviews with the complainant, collecting evidence, and understanding the nature of the alleged incident.

3. Once the complaint is assessed and deemed credible, the accused party is informed about the allegations against them in a fair and impartial manner.
4. The committee conducts a thorough investigation, which may involve interviewing witnesses, collecting evidence (emails, messages, documents), and gathering any relevant information.
5. It's crucial to maintain confidentiality throughout the investigation to protect the identities of both the complainant and the accused.
6. The collected evidence and testimonies are carefully analyzed to arrive at a conclusion. This analysis requires objectivity and fairness to ensure a just outcome.
7. Based on the investigation findings, the committee makes a decision regarding the complaint. They may recommend disciplinary actions, training, or any necessary measures to address the issue and prevent future occurrences.
8. A detailed report of the investigation, including findings and recommendations, is documented. This documentation is crucial for transparency and compliance purposes.
9. The committee ensures that the recommended actions are implemented, and follow-up measures are taken to monitor the situation and prevent any potential retaliation or recurrence of the issue.
10. Once the investigation is completed and actions are taken, the case is formally closed, and both the complainant and the accused are informed about the resolution.

Disciplinary actions taken by an Internal Complaint Committee (ICC) in response to a verified complaint of harassment, discrimination, or any form of misconduct in the workplace can vary based on the severity of the incident and organizational policies. Here are some potential disciplinary actions:

Disciplinary Action taken by ICC:

1. For minor infractions or as a first step towards sexual harassment, the committee might issue a verbal or written warning to the accused individual, emphasizing the seriousness of the issue and the need for corrective action.
2. Sometimes, the committee may recommend training sessions or counseling for the accused individual to educate them about appropriate workplace behavior and to prevent future occurrences.

4. In more serious cases, the committee might recommend a temporary suspension from work with or without pay while the investigation continues or as a disciplinary action.

5. If the offense is severe and warrants a strong response, the individual might face demotions as a disciplinary consequence.

6. In cases of serious misconduct or repeated sexual offenses, termination of employment or studentship might be the recommended course of action through governing body. This is usually considered the last resort after thorough investigation and consideration of all the facts.

7. The committee might also recommend other corrective measures, such as an apology, restitution, or any specific actions aimed at rectifying the harm caused.

Additionally, it's crucial to ensure that the process remains confidential to protect the privacy of both the complainant and the accused individual while also providing support to both parties throughout the process.

Reporting Mechanism: The survivor of the Sexual harassment who wishes to pursue a formal complaint against the accused regarding sexual harassment has multiple options. He or she can make written complaints to the authority or ICC, can go through the website for an online complaint or may submit a written complaint in the grievance redressal box placed inside the campus. The procedures of the mechanism can be divided into two sections, one is informal complaint and the one is formal complaint. In case of informal complaint, the survivor intends to lodge a complaint to a teacher or any well wisher and in the case of formal complaint, the survivor directly opt for a regular complaint against the accused and submit a complaint to the ICC.
