

ASSIGNMENT SET - III
Department of Nutrition
Mugberia Gangadhar Mahavidyalaya

Subject- B.Voc. in Food Processing

Semester-V

Paper Code: BVFPS502T

[DOCUMENTATION IN FOOD PROCESSING]

Answer all the questions:

Unit-1

1. How is documentation used to track and record any deviations, non-conformities, or corrective actions in the food industry?
2. What are the best practices for maintaining accurate and up-to-date documentation throughout the food production process?

Unit-2

1. How do computer systems help in inventory management and tracking of raw materials and finished products in both milk plants and fruits vegetable plants?
2. What are the benefits of using computer systems for data management, quality control, and traceability in food processing industries?

Unit -3

1. What are the essential modules or components of an ERP system commonly used in the food industry?
2. How does an ERP system facilitate real-time data sharing and communication across different departments in a food processing company?
3. What are the challenges and potential issues that companies may face during the implementation of an ERP system in the food industry, and how can they be addressed effectively?

Unit-4

1. What are the potential challenges or issues that can arise in documenting finished product details, and how can they be effectively addressed?
2. How does the documentation of finished product details contribute to product recall management and consumer safety in the food industry?
3. What are the requirements and considerations for labeling and documenting specific product categories, such as organic products, genetically modified organisms (GMOs), or health claims?

END