Report

The event took place at Mugberia Gangadhar Mahavidyalaya at scheduled time, setting the stage for an insightful and impactful experience. The captivating short film, "Sound of Silence," was carefully selected and showcased by the Department of Political Science at the scheduled time and date, drawing the attention of students and faculty alike. The film's narrative unfolded in a way that resonated with the audience, delivering a powerful message against social differences and urging viewers to break their silence in the face of injustice.

The Short film screening became a hub of thoughtful discussions and reflections as students and teachers engaged in post-screening conversations facilitated by the Department of Political Science. The film not only inspired but also provoked meaningful conversations surrounding moral responsibility, societal activism, and the profound impact of silence on individuals and communities. The platform provided by the department offered a space for students to express their perspectives, fostering a sense of unity and shared purpose.

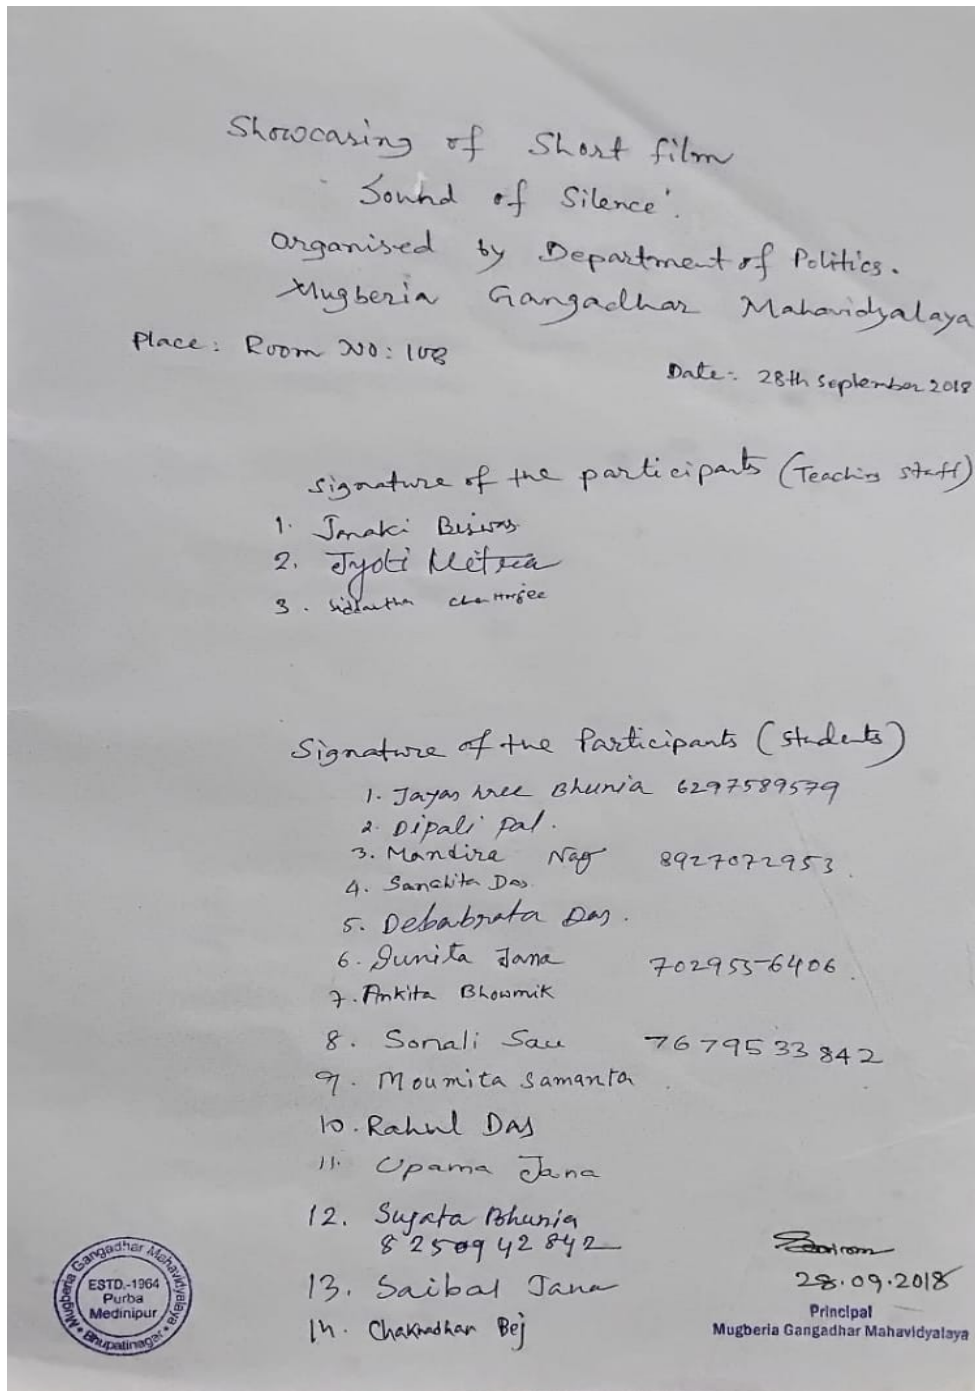

The group discussion that followed was marked by a palpable sense of keen interest, as participants delved into the nuances of the film's themes. The discourse touched upon the transformative power of individual voices in instigating positive change and the importance of breaking the cycle of complicity. Students actively seized the opportunity to share their insights, contributing to a vibrant exchange of ideas.

The day served as a source of encouragement for both students and teachers, reinforcing the belief in the potential for education to inspire societal change. The event not only broadened the intellectual horizons of those in attendance but also ignited a collective commitment to actively address social issues and promote positive transformation. Room no 108 at Mugberia Gangadhar Mahavidyalaya became more than just a venue; it became a symbol of the power of dialogue and collective action in the pursuit of a more just and equitable society.
