Report

A Group Discussion Program on the topic of "Centralization and Decentralization" was organized by the Department of Political Science at Mugberia Gangadhar Mahavidyalaya. The event aimed to provide students with a platform to express their views on the subject and engage in constructive discussions. The details of the program are outlined below:

Introduction and Procedure Explanation: The Head of the Department, Jonaki Biswas, initiated the program by providing an overview of the agenda and explaining the procedure for the group discussion. This included the guidelines, time allocation, and the expectations from the participating students.

Facilitation by Faculty: Faculty member Siddharta Chatterjee played a crucial role in ensuring the smooth conduct of the group discussion. He assisted students in seating themselves appropriately, fostering an environment conducive to open and effective communication.

Discussion Dynamics: Despite the best efforts of the organizers, the overall discussion did not meet the expected level of satisfaction. Students encountered challenges in expressing their views comprehensively, and the discourse did not reach the desired depth. However, it's essential to acknowledge the commendable effort put forth by the participants.

Observations:

- Limited Expression: The students faced difficulties in articulating their thoughts and opinions on the topic. The level of participation was not as robust as anticipated.
- Positive Effort: Despite the challenges, the earnest attempt made by the students to engage in the discussion is commendable. The event served as a learning experience, highlighting areas for improvement.

Conclusion: The Group Discussion Programme on "Centralization and Decentralization" at Mugberia Gangadhar Mahavidyalaya, though not entirely satisfactory in terms of student participation and expression, was nonetheless a praiseworthy effort. It underlines the importance of continuous initiatives to enhance students' communication and analytical skills.

Recommendations for Improvement:

1. Preparation Sessions: Conduct preparatory sessions to familiarize students with effective group discussion techniques.
2. Encouragement: Encourage students to research and prepare for the discussion topic in advance to facilitate more meaningful contributions.
3. Feedback Mechanism: Establish a feedback mechanism to gather insights from participants, enabling organizers to refine future group discussion programs.

The Department of Political Science remains committed to organizing such events to foster intellectual development and enhance the overall learning experience of the students. This Group Discussion Programme serves as a stepping stone, and lessons learned will contribute to the refinement of future academic activities.
